

Atlantans Marilyn Krone and Sandra Baldwin, owners of the Cabins at Seven Foxes in Lake Toxaway, North Carolina, recently celebrated the third anniversary of their rustic getaway. The property consists of five cabins nestled among seven-acres in the Blue Ridge Mountains. The partners have been busy updating and renovating the cabins that overlook the meadow home of goats and miniature horses. Each charming, woodsy cabin has hardwood floors, beamed ceilings, antiques and unique touches that reflect its particular animal theme. Guests shouldn't worry about having to "rough it" though, unless they consider central heat, air conditioning, satellite TVs, VCRs, gas fireplaces and full kitchens "rough."

LAKE TOXAWAY, North Carolina

Guests of Seven Foxes are greeted by new property managers, Linda and Bill Bergamini. Check out the special reduced-rate two-night holiday package that includes a free Christmas tree. For reservations, call (828) 877-6333 or go to sevenfoxes.com. — Meg Sparwath